A chilled fruit salad is bright and refreshing. A room-temperature fruit salad is just sad. For those menu items that demand careful temperature control, these double-wall stainless steel bowls keep the cold in. In fact, they're so well insulated that you'll notice minimal condensation buildup as you move them from the refrigerator to the buffet line.

This 220 ounce double-wall bowl has plenty of room for keeping pasta salads, potato salads and all of the other "salads" chilled for as long as possible. And thanks to its satin-finished stainless steel construction, it looks gorgeous in the process. Building an effective buffet involves a lot of moving parts and a lot of careful timing, but with this cold-trapping bowl, you can make everyone's job a little bit easier.
